2. Student Residence

a. Residential Halls

Residential halls are not just places of accommodation, through in-hall and inter-hall events, students from different disciplines are given the opportunity to participate in a wide range of intellectual, cultural and sports activities, and to develop long-lasting friendships. As of today, there are 13 residential halls:

- Lady Ho Tung Hall
- Lee Hysan Hall
- Lee Shau Kee Hall
- Morrison Hall
- R.C. Lee Hall
- Ricci Hall
- Simon K.Y. Lee Hall
- St. John's Collage
- Starr Hall
- Suen Chi Sun Hall
- Swire Hall
- University Hall
- Wei Lun Hall

Every residential hall has its own culture. You may have a taste of hall life by joining touch camps, which will usually be held in mid-August. Meanwhile, the orientation camps will be held in late August.

b. Residential Colleges

Residential Colleges offer an immersive residential-academic experience, combining modern living facilities with innovative educational programming. The colleges foster a close-knit community that supports both academic and personal growth.

c. Non-Residential Halls

Students can choose to join a non-residential hall as non-residential members. Each Hall has its own traditions and cultures with students who organize hall events and social activities, plus there are a number of inter-hall events and competition organized every year.

d. Others

CEDARS also offers a selection of apartments and flats that are available for students with an alternative living experience in Hong Kong.

How to apply for HKU residences?

Submit your application through the HKU Portal and review the steps on the Residence Application page. Please check the details for your student category at <https://housing.cedars.hku.hk/university-accommodation/residence-application>.

For more information, please visit "Housing and Student Residences".

3. Centre of Development and Resources for Students (CEDARS)

CEDARS is committed to fostering an intellectually stimulating and culturally diverse campus to enrich students' total learning experience at HKU. Bridging the boundary between classroom and the world, CEDARS provides support services, resources and educational programmes to all current undergraduate students.

a. Student Support and Inclusion

Services include Student Housing, Amenities Centres, Financial Aid and Funding, International Student Support, Diversity and Inclusion, and Catering.

4. Course Selection

(applicable to UG students only)

a. Course Requirements

Regardless of which degree programme you belong to, you will be required to partake in courses amounting to 57-63 credits in total each year. For the First Year, students who are admitted in 2026-27 and thereafter, these would include:

- Professional core courses
- Common Core courses
- Artificial intelligence literacy course (3 credits)
- Electives
- Academic communication in English (non-credit bearing) (if not exempted)

	LLB	BBA(Law)&L LB	BSc &LLB	BSocSc(Govt &Laws) &LLB	BA&LLB
Course Enrolment Structure	Professional core courses in law
	36 credits	30-36 credits	36 credits	36 credits	36 credits
	Common Core courses
	18 credits	0-6 credits	0 credit	6-12 credits	/

	/	18 credits	18 credits	12 credits	18 credits
Total:	57 credits	57 credits	57 credits	57-63 credits	57 credits

Since there are different course requirements for different degree programmes, it is advisable that you check the regulations and syllabuses for the programme which you belong to in making course selection decisions. The regulations and syllabuses for each degree programme can be found in the faculty's Academic Resources Support Centre.

For students who are under HKU-UCL or HKU-PKU Dual Degree Programmes, please go to Academic Resources Support Centre for more information about their course structures.

b. First Year of Studies

(i) Professional Core Courses

Four professional core courses (totalling 36 credits) are compulsory for ALL first-year students. These courses are designated as “core” and offered in your first year because they all aim to instil in you foundational knowledge and skills necessary for you to progress in your legal studies and career in the future.

LLAW1001 & 1002 Law of Contract I & II (12 credits)

In this full-year course, you will learn the law that governs almost all major commercial transactions and the key thinking skills required in law.

The law of contract is one of the most important foundations of private law. You will come across contract law principles again in your senior year studies, and if you practise law in the future, you may also get the chance to deal with contractual disputes.

LLAW1008 The Legal System of the Hong Kong SAR (6 credits)

The aim of this course is to provide you with an understanding of Hong Kong’s legal system, its common law foundations and its interface with the PRC legal system within the One-Country-Two-Systems framework as outlined in the Basic Law.

We will look at the common law process and the role of personnel who help put the law into motion. We will examine the impact and performance of Hong Kong’s legal system through the study of a range of current issues, including the law-making process, the rule of law, the workings of One-Country-Two-Systems and access to justice.

LLAW1014 & 1015 Criminal Law I & II (12 credits)

This full-year course will introduce you to the fundamentals of criminal law and criminal liability, including key features of criminal procedure and the criminal justice system such as the presumption of innocence.

Criminal law provides the foundation of law and order in society. We will examine the sources of criminal law, including statutory law and statutory interpretation, and explore how offences are constructed and applied to those who commit or participate in criminal activity. We will study a range of criminal offences under Hong Kong Law, including national security offences.

LLAW1016 Legal Research and Writing (6 credits)

This course is designed as a practice-focused skills course and deliberately emphasises maximum participation. The lectures and tutorials work in tandem to help students develop skills such as research, analysis, legal reasoning and persuasive argument. Students will be introduced to judgments, ordinances and specific legal genres such as case note and legal memorandum.

The following table outlines some aspects of the format and expectations of each professional core course:

	Law of Contract I & II	The Legal System of the Hong Kong SAR	Criminal Law I & II	Legal Research and Writing
Credits	12	6	12	6
Full/half year	Full	Half	Full	Half
Semester	1 and 2	1	1 and 2	1
Teaching weeks	24	12	24	12
Lectures	2 hrs/week	2 hrs/week	2 hrs/week	1 hr/week
Learning activities Tutorials	2 hrs/bi-weekly per semester	2 hrs/bi-weekly	1 hr/week	2 hrs/week

You may refer to the course profile for more information on core courses.

Alternatively, you may contact the respective coordinators for the first-year courses if you still have any questions:

LLAW1001 & 1002 Law of Contract I & II	Dr. Stefan Lo
LLAW1008 The Legal System of the Hong Kong SAR	Professor Eric Ip Professor Trevor Wan
LLAW1014 & 1015 Criminal Law I & II	Professor Peter Chau Professor Florence Lee Mr Jacky Yeung
LLAW1016 Legal Research and Writing	Ms Sarah Cheng

(ii) Common Core Courses

The HKU Common Core Curriculum aims to serve as a platform for you to make connections across all the Faculties, and to develop the intellectual, social and innovative skills that enable you to tackle complex issues of the contemporary world.

The actual number you take each year varies, depending on the respective degree regulations as shown below:

	LLB	BBA(Law)&LLB	BSc&LLB	BSocSc(Govt&Laws) &LLB	BA&LLB
Year 1	18 credits	0-6 credits	0 credit	0-6-12 credits	0 credit
Year 2	18 credits	18-24 credits	12 credits	0-12-18 credits	18 credits
Year 3	N/A	N/A	6 credits	N/A	6 credits
Year 4/5	N/A	N/A	6 credits	N/A	N/A
Total:	36 credits	24 credits	24 credits	24 credits	24 credits

The Common Core Curriculum focuses on significant issues centred in 5 Areas of Inquiry (AoI).

Artificial Intelligence

Scientific and Technological Literacy

Arts and Humanities

Global Issues

China: Culture,
State and Society

Students under LLB programme must select at least one CC course from each AoI while students under integrated double-degree programmes must complete 24 credits from four of the five AoI, with 6 credits from each selected AoI.

Tips on selection of common core courses

Selecting common core courses, or what HKU students often call, “CC” is certainly no easy job if you are “decidophobic” (afraid of making choices) – as you can see from the website, there are a lot of choices available. Below are some criteria which you may consider in deciding which CC you would like to enrol in:

- Themes covered by the course – are you interested in them?
 - ⇒ Know which faculty the course coordinators and teachers belong to may give you a brief idea which discipline the course belongs to
 - ⇒ Glance through the required reading list to see if any of the learning materials arouse your interest

- Assessment tasks and their respective weighting
 - ⇒ Do you prefer working individually or in groups?
 - ⇒ Do you prefer writing essays or doing oral presentations?
- Comments from seniors/ online forums (e.g. HKU secrets)
 - ⇒ Good grade?
 - ⇒ Is the workload heavy? / Is the course “chur”?
 - ⇒ Did former students enjoy the course?

(iii) Artificial intelligence literacy course

All new undergraduate students, who are admitted in the academic year 2025-26 and thereafter, are required to complete successfully two 3-credit artificial intelligence literacy courses to satisfy part of the graduation requirements. In the first instance, you are required to take AILT1001 Artificial Intelligence Literacy I. This 3-credit course uses interactive lectures, tutorials, and a project to explore AI concepts, large language models, and ethical concerns. You are highly encouraged to take AILT1001 in your first year (Semester 1 or 2) as it is a prerequisite for taking the second AI Literacy course required for graduation. You may refer to the Artificial Intelligence Literacy I for more information.

Upon completion of AILT1001, you may take the second AI Literacy course offered by other Faculties/Schools that are open to all undergraduate students.

(iv) Academic communication in English (non-credit bearing)

You are required to complete a non-credit bearing CAES1001 Academic Communication in English (ACE) course, unless you are exempted by having achieved Level 5 or above in English Language in the Hong Kong Diploma of Secondary Education Examination (HKDSE), or equivalent. The HKDSE English Language results, or those qualifications recognized as equivalent to achieving Level 5 or above in the HKDSE English Language Examination, must be obtained in the same year in which students are admitted to the University.

c. Second and Senior Year of Studies

Given the different course requirements for different degree programmes in second and senior years, and that some of you may be interested in going on exchange (see “Outgoing Exchange Programme” in later part), you are strongly advised to check the regulations and related information when you make your study plan and, if you need further advice, contact your Faculty Academic Advisor.

5. Tips on Selection of Reading Materials

Reading constitutes a significant part of a law student's life. Textbooks, judgments, academic commentaries etc., these materials are what you will usually be asked to read in the course of studying law. Don't be too intimidated by the reading lists, just give yourself some time to get adapt to the new learning mode – you'll definitely find your way to deal with it!

Below are some suggestions which may help you select and manage the reading materials for each law course:

(i) Required reading

Materials belonging to this category are those which your teacher asks you to read. They are probably chapters from the prescribed textbooks of the course, and landmark cases for certain areas of law. It is probable that the content covered by these reading materials is examinable.

You are highly encouraged to read them before attending lectures and/or tutorials. This can help you form a broad picture of the topic which you are going to be taught.

(ii) Recommended reading

These are materials recommended by your teachers to read in addition to the required ones. While these materials may not be examinable (you have to check with your teachers), they can help you understand the legal principles more widely and profoundly. Having a holistic understanding of the law may enable you to come up with more in-depth analysis and distinguished views when tackling problem questions and essays in the exam.

(iii) Your own research materials

Following the common law system, decided cases in both local and overseas jurisdictions can have an impact in the development of the law in Hong Kong. Key cases are usually covered in the textbooks, but not necessarily the most recent ones. You may take the initiative to look for new cases decided locally and overseas to see if there is any update on the law.

You are also most welcome to read textbooks and academic commentaries outside of both the required and recommended reading lists for your own interests.

Students may find themselves tempted to use AI tools to assist them with their reading and comprehension of materials. However, newly admitted law students need to engage fully with legal materials early on in their legal studies, to begin developing the sophisticated reading, comprehension and critical skills which will be key to success both in your legal studies and in your future as a legal professional. You won't develop these skills if you simply outsource reading and comprehension to AI materials! So don't skimp on reading and comprehension - take the time you need.

Hope you enjoy reading and learning!

6. Academic Advising

(Applicable to UG students only)

Especially in your first year of studies, you may have questions regarding your academic study, choosing courses, making the best academic plans, and getting the most out of university life. You may need a lot of information and advice to make these decisions, and to plan your study and future career goals.

a. Faculty Level

These members of the faculty are ready and very much willing to help and share your ups and downs, concerns and worries:

(i) Faculty academic advisers

Every one of you will be assigned a teacher from the Faculty of Law as your Faculty Academic Adviser. You are encouraged to meet with your academic adviser at least once every semester, appointments can be made via email.

The Faculty Academic Adviser is there to help you on academic issues and give you advice and guidance in your academic life. If you encounter any questions relating to study strategies, course selection, academic and career goals, or issues about transition to university, you are most welcome to contact your adviser and discuss these issues with him or her.

To find your Faculty Academic Adviser, you may follow these steps:

Step 1: Login to your HKU Portal

Step 2: Click “Student Information System” > “Self Services” > “Student Center” > “Find your adviser”

Step 3: Check out the details of your adviser(s)

Step 4: Email your adviser by clicking his or her name

(ii) Faculty student advisers

Every one of you will also be assigned a senior student as your Faculty Student Adviser. You can seek advice from your peer adviser if you wish to know more about university life from a student’s perspective. Your seniors have gone through freshman year too and thus they would be in a good position to share their experience about study life, transition to university and other issues with you.

(iii) Undergraduate Curriculum Advice

For curriculum specific and course selection guidance, you may seek advice from Year Coordinators (for LLB students) and/or Curricula Directors and Deputy Directors (for integrated double-degree students).

b. University Level

The centralised Academic Advising & Scholarships Office \(AASO\) is happy to provide service and general support to students about degree requirements, academic regulations and cross-faculty learning as well as scholarships opportunities.

You may watch this YouTube video produced by the AASO to understand more about the role of the different advisers.

7. Exam Preparation

In-hall exams remain a common method of assessment for compulsory law courses and for some law electives. For most of the compulsory law courses, in-hall examinations are conducted in computer-based mode, using your personal laptop and examination software provided by the Faculty. In-hall examinations in electives may still use hand-written answer scripts.

How to prepare for exams? – this is undoubtedly what many law students are concerned about. The most efficient way of studying law varies from one to another: you may prefer studying alone while I may prefer studying in group; she may prefer hand-written notes while he may prefer typed notes. There is no definite way, but below is some advice for you to be SMART in preparing for exams:

Start revising early
Make your own notes
Attempt past paper/tutorial questions
Revise with friends
Take rest

(i) Start revising early

You may have experiences of studying the night before and still excel in exams before, but in law school, this probably does not work. Given the significant amount of reading materials (some hundred pages, or even more), you will need more time to carefully review and fully understand them.

Examination timetables will usually be available after the reading week. You will be informed by email when they are available. You can get access to them through the HKU examination office website: <http://www.exam.hku.hk> or the portal system (click “Examination Timetable” under the “Enrolment” column).

By starting early, you not only avoid cramming at the last moment, you will also feel less stressed and anxious since you will by then be well-prepared for the exam!

(ii) Make your own notes

Making notes is a helpful way to gather and reorganise all the legal principles and case laws that you’ve read and learnt. The reading list assigned by the course convenor of each course should have laid out the materials, for example, textbooks and cases which you are required to read. Your teachers may also have highlighted in lectures or tutorials legal principles, key cases or academic debates. It is advisable that you revise these examinable materials before exams.

There is no single way of how to make study notes – it is all up to you! You may draw tree diagrams, use tables and bullet-points, or write long paragraphs. As long as your notes help you, especially if it is going to be an open-book exam, they’ll be an excellent set of notes.

(iii) Attempt past paper/tutorial questions

Exams do not just test your ability to recall the legal principles and case law, more often, you are required to demonstrate your ability to apply the law in solving the problem question, or to come up with a critical view of a certain area of law in your essay. Trying out past paper questions is a means for you to practise your skills of applying the law. Practice makes perfect!

Where to find past paper?

- Past paper for all the courses can be found in the HKU Exam Base.
- Login to your portal > Click “My eLearning” > Go to “Course specific information” > Click “1) Past exam paper” under “The University of Hong Kong Libraries”

If a past paper is not available, e.g. because access to it has been “restricted” by your teacher, you may consider (re)attempting tutorial questions instead.

(iv) Revise with friends

Many a little makes a mickle! There is always more than one way to analyse a legal issue, discussing it among your peers may help you check your knowledge and gain perspectives.

Sharing notes is also a means to expand knowledge base and learn from one another – needless to say, this is a matter of personal preference, no pressure at all ☺

(v) Take rest

It may be tempting to burn the midnight oil, but in order to have a clear mind, you need to get enough sleep the day before the exam.

After all, don’t get stressed out! Exams are no doubt very important – well, they determine GPA – but they never determine who you are.

8. Plagiarism and Misuse of AI Tools

- (i) Plagiarism will lead to severe academic and disciplinary consequences. You should take a look at this website, What is Plagiarism?, which will provide you some guidance on what constitutes it, why it is wrong and how to avoid it. Plagiarism is copying the work of another person without proper acknowledgement. It can be committed unintentionally. It is also a serious academic offence to re-submit a piece of work which has also been submitted for another course, and such an offence will be dealt with in the same manner as plagiarism. You should also consult your teachers if you have any questions about how to avoid plagiarism before the due date for the work.
- (ii) You must use an assignment cover sheet as the first page of your submission. The cover sheet reminds you of the University guidelines on plagiarism. Before you submit your written assignment/research paper, you must read the cover sheet carefully and ensure that you have acknowledged other's academic work properly.
- (iii) To help you avoid plagiarism, all take-home course examination and assignments must be submitted through Turnitin, which automatically conducts similarity checks.
- (iv) For the avoidance of doubt, it is plagiarism to copy your own work or re-submit part or all of your own work for another assignment, and to reproduce substantial parts of another's work without putting them in quotation, even if you have made editing changes and cited the source.
- (v) To deter plagiarism, teaching staff have been instructed to take an active role in spotting plagiarism (and/or the misuse of AI tools) and to consider the matter for possible academic or disciplinary action. For further information, please do not hesitate to consult your course teacher or the Faculty Anti-Plagiarism Coordinator.
- (vi) More particularly, when a teacher is satisfied that submitted work contains plagiarism (and/or involves the misuse of AI tools), and that an educative response (usually involving re-writing and re-submission with a penalty) is not appropriate, then an academic response will be adopted. This will result in the plagiarized work being given a mark of zero or a reduced mark. On top of that, the matter may be treated as a disciplinary offence (just like the case of cheating during an examination) and referred to the University's Disciplinary Committee under Statute XXXI of the University's Statutes and the Disciplinary Committee Regulations. In this regard, your attention is drawn to section 4 of Statute XXXI, which provides that a student found guilty by the Disciplinary Committee of a disciplinary offence may be subject to several kinds of sanctions, including a published reprimand, suspension from classes or expulsion from the University.
- (vii) AI tools can provide students with valuable assistance in their studies, and students are encouraged to use such tools, but must do so responsibly and in an ethical manner. In particular, AI tools can be misused in the preparation of assignments, presentations and other assessable work. As with plagiarism, students must ensure that all work submitted for assessment is their own work, and not the product of AI tools. The Faculty's assignment cover sheet requires students to declare their use of AI tools, where this is permitted by a teacher for the purposes of an assignment. Failure to do so constitutes academic misconduct akin to plagiarism, and, as indicated above, will be treated in the same manner.

9. Grading Criteria

In all of your law assessments, you will be graded by reference to the following grading criteria.

First Class GPA = 3.60 – 4.30

A+	Outstanding (90-100)	GPA = 4.3
A	Excellent (85-89)	GPA = 4.0

Demonstrates qualities of originality in approach and argument, effective analytical and critical abilities, and a thorough understanding of the relevant law and legal issues;

OR

though not especially original, nevertheless demonstrates a very thorough understanding of the law, fluently expressed, founded on careful and critical reading of relevant materials, and demonstrating independent judgment.

Demonstrates highly effective organisational, rhetorical and presentational skills

Work reaching this standard should be awarded an A+. Where work satisfies most of these standards, but falls slightly short in one or two respects, then an A should be awarded.

A-	Borderline Excellent (80-84)	GPA = 3.7
-----------	-------------------------------------	------------------

Demonstrates some of the qualities required for an excellent grade, but overall falls short of excellence (eg is less comprehensive,
or perhaps incompletely states the law on a minor issue,
or misapplies it in relation to the facts, or perhaps incompletely deals with or even omits a minor issue, etc), or otherwise contains some minor errors.

Consistently demonstrates effective organisational, rhetorical and presentational skills.

In this case, an A- should be awarded.

Upper Second GPA = 3.0 – 3.59

B+ Very Good (76-79)	GPA = 3.3
-----------------------------	------------------

Demonstrates very good skills and ability in identifying,
analysing and
dealing with the main issues, and displays an ability to present persuasive arguments backed up by authority where necessary,

but falls short of excellence

(eg less analytical, critical, or thorough, AND incompletely states the law, misapplies the law and/or incompletely deals with or omits some issues etc) or contains some errors.

Normally, demonstrates sound organisational, rhetorical and presentation skills.

Work reaching this standard should be awarded a B+.

B Good (Average Competent Answer) (73-75)

GPA = 3.0

Demonstrates good skill and ability in identifying,
analysing, and
displays an ability to present coherent and structured arguments backed up by authority where necessary,

but falls short of very good in some material aspects (eg arguments less fully developed and persuasive, coverage of issues less comprehensive or complete,
structure of answers less logical or coherent, omission to cite some minor authorities where necessary, or application of law to facts less developed).

Demonstrates good organisational, rhetorical, and presentational skills.

Work reaching this standard should be award a B.

Lower Second GPA = 2.4 – 2.99

B- Borderline Good (70-72)

GPA = 2.7

Broadly identifies the major issues and displays a broad understanding of the relevant law, but contains errors or is vague or confused on an issue or in applying the law to the facts, or omits some major issues, etc.

Demonstrates fair organisational, rhetorical and presentational skills but structure of answers less organised.

Where work generally satisfies these standards, it should be awarded a B-.

Third Class GPA = 1.7 – 2.39

C+	Very Satisfactory (66-69)	GPA = 2.3
C	Satisfactory (63-65)	GPA = 2.0
C-	Borderline Satisfactory (60-62)	GPA = 1.7

Identifies and broadly deals with some of the major issues, but displays a more limited understanding of the relevant law largely derived from course materials, or contains errors or is confused in stating or applying the law to the facts.

Demonstrates adequate organisational, rhetorical and presentational skills.

Where work generally satisfies these standards, it should be awarded a C+.

Where work broadly reaches this standard but falls short in one or more respects, it should be awarded a C or C-.

Pass GPA = 1.0 – 1.69

D+	Pass (55-59)	GPA = 1.3
D	Borderline Pass (50-54)	GPA = 1.0

Demonstrates a bare minimum of knowledge and some recognition of issues,

but issues are generally incompletely or unclearly perceived and treated, understanding is incomplete and demonstrates poor digestion of course or other relevant materials, or there are a number of positive mistakes.

Demonstrates poor organisational, rhetorical and presentational skills, but sufficient to pass. Where work falls within this range, it may be awarded a D+ or D, according to the extent of weakness evidenced.

Fail GPA = 0.0

----------	--------------------	------------------

Fails to identify major issues, serious mistakes of law are apparent,
irrelevant material is included, handling of the question generally, including organisational, rhetorical and presentational skills, is below par.

Fails to reach degree level.

10. Degree Classifications

All degrees offered at the Faculty of Law will be awarded in 5 divisions determined by the Board of Examiners for the degree in accordance with the following Graduation GPA scores, with all courses taken (including failed courses) carrying equal weighting:

Class of Honours	CGPA range
First Class Honours	3.60-4.30
Second Class Honours	2.40-3.59
Division One	3.00-3.59
Division Two	2.40-2.99
Third Class Honours	1.70-2.39
Pass	1.00-1.69

Notwithstanding the above, the Board of Examiners has the discretion to limit the number of candidates to be awarded a particular class of honours as follows:

- First: no more than 10% of the graduating class;
- Second (Division One): no more than 55% of the graduating class
- Second (Division Two); Third: Pass and Fail: remainder of the graduating class

11. Dean's Honours List

To recognize students' outstanding academic achievements, students who meet the following criteria would be recommended by the Board of Examiners for inclusion within the Dean's annual Honours List:

- a. Students whose Yearly GPA ranked within the top 10% of their respective study year;
- b. Students successfully completed at least 48 credits at HKU during the academic year (excluding summer semester);
- c. Students on outgoing exchange or on leave (one semester or full year) would not be eligible for recommendation of the Dean's Honours List.

*Students who are studying dual degree programmes (HKU&UCL and HKU&PKU) would be ranked together with LLB students of their respective study year.

12. Student Researcher Scheme

Students wishing to enhance their research skills by providing voluntary research assistance to teachers are invited enrol in this Scheme. If any teacher needs such assistance, he or she may contact a student enrolled in this Scheme.

Kindly note that:

- Participation in the Scheme does not carry any financial remuneration and is purely on a voluntary basis; and
- The scope for participation hinges on the demand for research assistance among teachers.

Interested students should submit their applications through Student Intranet.

13. Outgoing Exchange Programme

(Applicable to UG students only)

Going on exchange is a very worthwhile experience which will broaden your horizon and perspective. You can study for part of your degree on an approved exchange programme. Every year, many law students study abroad and benefit immensely.

If you are interested in studying abroad for one semester or full year, you may do so in Year 3 or 4 if you are in the LLB programme, or in Year 4 or 5 if you are in any of the integrated double-degree programmes.

Currently, there are two exchange programmes available:

- HKU Worldwide Undergraduate Student Exchange Programme \(HKUWW\)
- Faculty-level Exchange programme, includes the Self-funding Visiting Student Scheme

a. Preparation for exchange

If you would like to participate in the exchange programme, below are some recommended ways for you to get prepared beforehand (typically one year before):

(i) Attend the briefing session about the Faculty-based exchange programme

Every year, there will be an exchange briefing session held in September. During the session, you will be introduced to each of the exchange programmes, and be informed of the application requirements and procedures. If you are interested in going on an exchange, you are highly encouraged to attend the session. Details of the session will be announced in due course.

(ii) Review and devise study plan

Depending on the structure of your programme, you may need to check the regulations and/or seek advice from your programme coordinator if you have to rearrange your study plan in order to spare a certain amount of credits for your exchange studies.

(iii) Look into credit transfer issues

While you are considering what courses to take at the exchange institution, especially when it comes to professional cores and PCLL prerequisites (see later part on “PCLL programme”), you will have to check whether they are compatible with the equivalent at HKU and that credits be transferred to your HKU degree.

(iv) Pay attention to the application timeline

There are various important dates that you have to note during the application process, e.g. when to submit the online application form and when to attend the interview held by the faculty’s exchange team. Having in mind the application timeline helps you get the required documents ready on time.

(v) Leave of absence

If you are going on exchange, please apply for a leave of absence through the relevant process in advance.

(vi) Request an official transcript

Upon completing of your exchange, you must apply for an official academic transcript from your host institution. Please submit to the Faculty of Law by the stipulated deadline for the purpose of credit transfer.

(vii) You may contact our Exchange Team at lawexch@hku.hk for enquiries.

14. Internal Transfer

(Applicable to UG students only)

a. Application for Internal Transfer of Studies

Students who are interested in programme transfer should take thorough and serious consideration of all relevant factors and information before making this important decision. The channels you can seek advice include:

(i) Faculty Academic Adviser (FAA) and/or teachers concerned:

You can discuss with your FAA and/or teacher about Faculty-specific and all study-related matters. You can get the contact information of your FAA and other teachers at SIS and relevant faculty websites respectively.

(ii) Academic Adviser at the Academic Advising & Scholarships Office (AASO):

For general advice, such as the pros and cons of attempting a transfer, the adviser at AASO might be able to help. Appointments can be made via their online booking system or by phone at 3917 0128.

b. Important Notes for Internal Transfer of Studies

(i) Information to be included in the application

There is no official application form to fill in but please include the following information in the application via email:

- Your full name in English
- University number
- Correspondence address
- Contact phone number
- Current curriculum and year of studies
- Desired curriculum and year of studies
- Reasons for transfer of studies with your signature (There is no word limit but it is usually within three A4 pages in length)
- Supporting documents (e.g. transcripts, public examination results), if any

(ii) Submission of the application

Application for internal transfer of studies should be made using your "@connect.hku.hk" e-mail account. It is suggested that you indicate your name, university number and that this is an internal transfer application in the e-mail subject.

(e.g. Internal transfer application_CHAN Tai Man_3035012345)

The internal transfer application, together with attachment(s) in Word or pdf format, should be sent to the Academic Services Office by e-mail to transfer@hku.hk on or before the stipulated deadline. Students should observe different deadlines stipulated by different Faculties.

Please refer to the website of Academic Support and Examinations Section for more information.

Applicants should note that internal transfer includes transfer of both credits and grades.

15. Postgraduate Certification in Laws (PCLL) Programme

a. What is the PCLL programme?

The purpose of the Postgraduate Certification in Laws \(PCLL\) programme is to prepare law degree holders for their future practice as solicitors or barristers in Hong Kong. Students will be taught professional ethics, analysis of company accounts as well as practical skills which include drafting of legal documents and advocacy will be taught in much greater depth.

b. Eligibility for the PCLL programme

Completion of your Bachelor of Laws is of course a requirement for admission to the PCLL programme. In addition to that, you have to demonstrate competence in these law subjects:

- Law of Contract
- Law of Tort
- Constitutional Law
- Criminal Law
- Land Law
- Equity & Trusts
- Evidence
- Business Associations
- Commercial Law
- Hong Kong Legal System

c. Application for the HKU PCLL programme

You will be invited to a briefing session, during which you will be able to know more about the requirements and procedures for the HKU PCLL programme when you reach your final year of studies. You don't have to worry too much about it for the time being!

16. Career Prospect

Studying at law school is only the starting point for a legal career. This diagram briefly shows how you can become qualified as a lawyer in Hong Kong:

In any case, doing a law degree does not mean you have to be a lawyer in the future – always keep your options open!

17. Career Opportunities and Preparation

a. Law Firms

(i) Attend the annual Hong Kong Law Fair

The Hong Kong Law Fair is an event in which you can learn about career opportunities offered by more than 50 law firms in Hong Kong through speaking to their staff members. It is usually held in September every year.

If you are interested in working in law firms, or simply would like to know more about them, you are very much encouraged to join. The event is free-of-charge for all law students.

(ii) Attend career talks, open house events or other law firm events

Career talks are held by different law firms throughout the academic year. Keep an eye on your emails, and register for talks which you are interested in.

An open house event allows you to visit the office of a law firm. Not only will you learn more about the firm's working environment, you will also be given the chance to socialise with its staff members. Just like for career talks, you will be invited to join through email, and you may register if you are interested.

Apart from those mentioned above, law firms may hold other events such as cocktail receptions and career workshops.

As you may already note, emails are the major source that provides information about career events. It is therefore very important that you check your emails regularly! You may also keep yourself updated by liking the HKU Law Careers Resource Centre Facebook page.

(iii) Apply for vacation schemes

Vacation schemes are one-month internships with law firms. They take place during winter vacation (December or January) and, more commonly, summer vacation (June, July and August). Different law firms have different deadlines and application procedures, if you wish to know how to apply for their vacation schemes, you may visit their respective websites.

In many cases, vacation schemes are only available for penultimate year students because they are a means for students to obtain training contracts. Before getting qualified as a solicitor, you have to complete a training contract with a law firm after passing the PCLL.

Having all said, since you are still in your first year, you don't have to worry too much about application for vacation schemes. This is the year for you to explore your career interests!

b. Chambers

(i) Attend career talks

Similar to that for law firms, different chambers will also hold career talks throughout the year. You will receive related information via emails.

(ii) Apply for mini-pupillages

Mini-pupillages are work placements in chambers. They take place from two weeks to a month, depending on the practice of each set of chambers, during winter and summer vacations.

During mini-pupillage, you will usually be given the opportunity to get attached to one or more barristers. You may be asked to assist the barrister in some legal research or drafting work, and even attend trials to observe how barristers advocate in the courtroom.

Different sets of chambers have different deadlines and application procedures. If you wish to apply for mini-pupillage, you may visit their respective websites.

c. Anywhere else you can think of!

You can also try to be a judge's marshal, an intern in a private business company or any government departments and even non-government organisations. Particularly in junior years, you may take the time to find your passion and explore as many career options as possible!

d. Internships, Statutory Minimum Wage and Visa Matters

- (i) Students wishing to undertake internships during their studies should note that the statutory minimum wage is HK$ 43.1 per hour / $17,600 per month with effect from 1 May 2026. Students enrolled in full-time accredited programmes provided by recognised local education institutions may apply for exemption under the Minimum Wage Ordinance for "student interns" or "work experience students" (statutory declaration required). In general, the Faculty will only consider such applications for exemption as "work experience students". See also Factsheet for Law Students Seeking Internships.
- (ii) Non-local students must possess a "no-objection letter" for internships and seek endorsement from the General Office before taking up any such internship. For further information on visa matters, you may browse the following links:

For Students from Other Countries

<https://www.studentvisa.hku.hk/>

For Students from Mainland China

- (iii) We only support undergraduate internships which take place during term break. Term-time internships are not supported unless you are able to provide strong justifications.

18. Career Support

a. University Level

CEDARS integrates career-focused learning with innovative AI tools and direct industry engagement, helping students explore diverse career pathways and gain practical workplace exposure and insights. Please refer to “Careers and Employability” for more information.

b. Faculty Level

(i) In House Career Resources Centre

Our web-based Career Resources Centre is a law student-centred platform providing resources from career talk schedule, latest market news, job vacancies to list of law firms. Through a wide range of activities, it strives to provide vast opportunities for students to develop independent learning attitude and professional skills in launching a rewarding career.

(ii) Career Services (Moodle)

There is also a course created on Moodle called, “Career Services”. In there, you would be able to find information regarding career opportunities in the legal sector and upcoming career events, tips on cover letter and CV writing and interview skills. You can also make appointments with the Career Development Advisor, Ms Perline Ko, if you wish to seek advice in relation to your career development.
